About Rapid Reality

Founded in May 2005, Rapid Reality is a video game developer located in Marietta, Georgia. Our team of programmers, artists, and designers is dedicated to producing next generation online games. Our passion and our mission is to make the kind of games you want to play and we want to build. There are no suits at Rapid Reality: we're gamers.

Our values:

Passion

With every concept drawing, every line of code, and every design document we create, we put a little piece of ourselves into our work. We're passionate about what we do and we enjoy the creative challenge of making great titles.

Innovation

We're not afraid to try new things. Good games are about more than flashy graphics. Good games push the envelope. Good games redefine a genre or create a new one altogether. At Rapid Reality, we seek to innovate, not imitate.

Communication

We view game development as a conversation between our customers and our design team. The better we understand your gaming needs, the better the games we create. Communication is as much about listening as talking. We promise to listen to you and to keep you up to date on our projects.
